FRIDAY, 6 P.M.

The political aspect of affairs remains unchanged. Some members of the opera troupe left Melbourne yesterday for Sydney.

The Royal Society has discussed Postle's method of preserving meat by freezing, and propose to raise sufficient capital to procure machinery for the preservation of fifty tons as an experiment.

The Athenaeum Club Circular Prospectus has been issued; it is to be under the management of Mr. G. Knight, and promises to give fine and varied entertainments, several novel effects were successfully introduced, and the closing tableau—the Galatas at Farm Cove with a figure of Britannia in the foreground—was a success. The drama, however, was excellent, several new acts were introduced, and the curtain rose on a scene of much interest.

The will of the late Mr. Hobson has been proved—£100,000 in England, and £35,000 in the colonies.

At the Sandhurst Circuit Court, Wodowunna, for the Victoria Bank burglary, he was acquitted; and Atkinson, charged with murder, was also acquitted.

Messrs. Sladen and Fellowes are engaged in forming a ministry.

Mr. Buttens, the Mayor, is seriously ill; he burst a blood-vessel to-day.

The White Rose spoke the Ben Lomond of Tristan d'Acunha; the Royal Oak spoke the Nereh on Tuesday, 76 days out, in latitude 39°, longitude 142°; the Wave sighted a vessel, supposed to be the Golden Sea, between Hogen and Kent's Group.

QUEENSLIFF.

ARRIVED.—Pawhataan, barque, from New York; Adeline Burke, and Pioneer, from Newcastle.

SAILLED.—Aveyron, French war steamer, for Sydney.

ADELAIDE.

FRIDAY, 6 P.M.

The railway returns for 1867 show the re-exports for that year to have been $115,310, and the expenditure, £124,652.

The performances at the Theatre Royal are drawing good houses.

Damaged sugar ex Prospero realized at auction, to-day, fully £3 advance on last rates. The corn market is quiet.

Weather, fine and cool.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.—OPENING OF THE EXTENSION TO MOUNT VICTORIA.

The "Iron Horse," who has been "stepping out" to the westward with most prudential slowness, took yesterday another little stride of fifteen miles. He has come to temporary halt at the foot of Mount Victoria, where he will probably remain for some months, in order to recruit himself for a descent upon Bowensford, and thereafter a final stride into Bathurst. He has certainly got over the worst part of his journey. He has turned, twisted, and zigzagged among the mountains in such a puzzling manner, that one is fairly overcome by the evidence of his climbing capacities, his genius for dodging difficulties, and his stern disregard of hills and hollows.

Dropping metaphor, and speaking by the card, we have to record that further instalment of sixteen miles of railway on the Great Western line was yesterday formally opened to the public, and the opening train, from Paddington, in future travel as far as Mount Victoria instead of making Weatherboard Creek their western terminus as hitherto. The opening trip was made yesterday, and the station is now open for passengers. The distance from our point is dreary—say, by Mr. Horsley, the following:—"A mile and a half to Paddington, 16½ miles to Duthie, a glib brilliant ("Il Corridore," by Beak), and a grand fantasy by Thalberg are the chief pieces presented. All the pictures are a cheap series of first-class art, the writing tickets for which are only one pound a month. Next Monday night there might be a general exchange of programme."

THE BURAGOGOON ROAD.—It may not be generally known that although a vast amount of produce reaches the Sydney market from the Buragoon road, until very recently it had not been officially registered, and so could not pass—read it could not be called. But owing principally to the exertions of Mr. John Morris and Mr. Roberts, the local members, a sum of money was, in the session of 1866, placed at the disposal of the Government, and during the past year a road had been made from the Buragoon road (thirty miles from Picton) within easy access of the native police. At a meeting held at Mr. Morris' hotel, on the 20th instant, Mr. H. Dunn in the chair, it was decided to name the road after Mr. Morris, and Mr. Morris and Mr. Roberts were appointed to the interests of the constituency. Stewards were appointed at the meeting, and we believe a requisition has been forwarded to the honourable members representing them to name a day upon which it would be convenient to them to accept the invitation.—Communicated.

THE ATTEMPT TO SHOOT MR. GRAY AT KIAMA.—The Kiama Independent of Thursday gives the following account of a diabolical attempt on the life of Mr. Gray:—"On Tuesday evening, about ten o'clock, as Mr. Gray was returning from Kiama, he was received in the Longbush, and passing near the residence of Mr. R. Connell, C.P.S., a shot was fired at him from among the bushes which grow at that spot, and Mr. Gray was severely wounded with a gun which was only provided for inflicting a severe and perhaps fatal wound, by the circumstance that the horse which he was riding swerved or started from her path at the moment of the discharge. The ball which had been, no doubt, well aimed, struck the horse in the side, and the horse, now thoroughly scared, turned round, and in spite of the efforts of the rider, bolted back towards the town. Mr. Gray, who was unable to check its speed in time for pursuit of the assassin, was compelled to alarm the neighbourhood by shouting 'Murder.' He, however, succeeded in getting away across Mr. Connell's paddock-hut, of course without the chance of identifying him. On reaching the police station, Mr. Gray informed Sergeant Johnson of what had transpired, and exhibited the damaged saddle in the presence of a few constables, and the sergeant, on the arrival of the hour, assembled almost instantaneously on the spot. Mr. Gray was afterwards accompanied to his home by sergeants Johnson and Mr. G. Hetherington, who armed themselves for the purpose, and afterwards returned to town; but, as they were unable to find the assassin at once, Mr. Hetherington subsequently went again to Mr. Gray, and the latter proceeded to the house of Mr. J. W. Smith, against whom it was conjectured that some outrage might have been committed. Mr. Smith and his son, Mr. George, and his wife, informed him of what had occurred. Sergeant Johnson, who had been despatched to Kiama, and found a portion of a letter envelope which had evidently been used as a wedging for a gun, Mr. Gray stated that he had been shot at in the early hours of the morning, and was unable to ascertain the exact time, and that he had been shot at in the direction of the Buragoon road, and that the assassin was probably a man of middle age, and of average height, and that he had been shot at from behind, and carried him back to his district before he could rein in the animal up. Mr. Gray had no idea who might have alarmed the horse until he was afterwards told that two men had been observed riding near the spot he had been shot at."

FACTORY IN THE SHOALHORN DISTRICT.—If the following of the Gazette correspondent of the Adelaide Advertiser is correct, it would seem that in the Shoalhorn district there is something more than "sympathy" with Fenians in existence, and that Fenians are here. He writes:—"This colony has been disgraced by an attempt to assassinate the Prince, and many have confounded themselves in the thought that that attempt was made by a foreigner. It has been generally contended that a citizen so wicked could nowhere be found, but it has been averred that the attempt or shooting down of other citizens, and then observing the spot where the murderer had been, to examine the spot where the murderer had been, and found a portion of a letter envelope which had evidently been used as a wedging for a gun. A man Gray stated that he had been shot at in the early hours of the morning, and was unable to ascertain the exact time, and that he had been shot at in the direction of the Buragoon road, and that the assassin was probably a man of middle age, and of average height, and that he had been shot at from behind, and carried him back to his district before he could rein in the animal up. Mr. Gray had no idea who might have alarmed the horse until he was afterwards told that two men had been observed riding near the spot he had been shot at."

NARROW ESCAPE FROM STURKATON IN THE BUSH.—About a fortnight since (the Launceston Examiner) a mounted Desmodum, a bushriff, proceeded to the westward to exact a ransom of £1000, and in endeavouring to make a short cut through the Kangaroo Plains, he was waylaid in vain endeavouring to recover the road, he made his way to a deserted hut, and whilst there was taken so ill as to be unable to resume his search, and there he remained alone, and subsisted on such food as he could find for about eleven days. A remarkable circumstance is the fact that, while lying thus sick and helpless a man came to the hut, and, without giving him any money, he said that he had him, if he would do so. "The fellow only took the money, but evidently thinking poor Desmodum had no other food but meat, but neither obtained assistance nor came to the place again. On Wednesday last Desmodum managed to crawl from the hut into the main road, and when he was picked up by the police, Mr. Condon, he was in a parlous condition, the fellow taken to the hospital. It is feared that the great sufferings endured by him will affect his intellect, if they do not lead to fatal consequences."

PRINCE OF WALES OPERA HOUSE.

THE LAST NIGHT BUT ONE

SATURDAY, May 2nd, 1868.

The new and great act of the HORIZONTAL BAMBOO is another of the many great marvels introduced by CUTS-WHO-GERO. The legend of the Pale-wolf, now one of the "existing lines," it comes under the superintendence of Mr. Mason, who is perfectly satisfied with the work. Being now one of the "existing lines," it comes under the superintendence of Mr. Mason, who is perfectly satisfied with the work.

The Mount Victoria Station is the next point at which the railway can be reached from Hartley, which place is about five miles distant.

The train arrived at the Mount Victoria Station about twenty minutes before noon, and as it drew into the station, a short interval, the building cheered most heartily. Excellency alighted, and in company with Captain Beresford, Mr. Tolman, and Messrs. Parkes and Byrnes the various buildings and railings around the small village which had been constructed during the visitation of the Emperor.

The train stopped for the形成 of the line was noon, shortly after which time, the vice-regal party returned to the platform, and the imposing ceremonial was duly performed.

Mr. Excellency said that as this was the first occasion, as he believed, on which a passenger train had traversed the Western Railway line as far as Mount Victoria, he would, in accordance with a suggestion that had been made to him, mention a few facts.

The line would be about 100 miles long, and the colony of the advantages which would be in the future secure to the colony from railway works. He was informed that the prices charged for the conveyance of goods between Sydney and Bathurst were between £10 and £20 per ton, and that the cost of the carriage of grain by rail, and by means of the railway the same goods that were now conveyed at so high a rate, would be conveyed—or rather would be when the line was completed—to the town of Bathurst for about £1 per ton.

The colony would not doubt be able to compete with the Great Western line in the quantity of goods conveyed.

Prices for the million, via—Gallery and Upper Circle, £1, Pit, 1s; Stalls, 2s; Dress Circle, 2s 6d.
